

Gensteel Doors - Powder Coating Finish

In addition to decorative finishing, we also offer an unlimited choice of powder coating options. Our procedures comply with the very strict standards of AAMA (American Architectural Manufacturers Association) certifications and our innovative, material-specific pre-treatment process is one of the most environmentally friendly systems available today.

Powder coating is the electrostatic application of organic powders. This method of painting allows for a more consistent and durable finish. Our unrivaled dedication to quality control is what allows us to guarantee a product that meets among the highest architectural standards in the construction industry.
